

Poetry
by Papi

You fool

By Papi - March 1, 2017

You fool . . . your sloven and apparently self-anesthetized incoherent mumbling . . . slurred haphazardly from a distance avoiding presence and the eyes of knowledge you . . . in an effort to only submit baseless conflict and debate regardless the subject . . . you must contentiously await your scalding and for you . . . you fool . . . to presume to possess intellectual credentials worthy to engage you . . . lack the simplistic refinement belonging to respect Why not bring your tired and lazy assumptions so suggestively assigned to your own hypnosis to include a proper context and a timely fashion

You fool . . . your monotonous selfishness seeks only the indulgences you feel you are owed . . . these preconceived ill notions can only be rewarded within recognizable context you fool you . . . due to an inherent lack of protocol have no decent reference to engage in discussion . . . instead of honest admission you lie toward the flame and for you . . . you fool . . . to expect any to subscribe to your devious and patented suppositions you . . . lack the simplicity of observation to hazard an outcome Why not couple truth with your current and repetitious dilemmatic circumstances and seek a place of humble resolve to include the rights of those you continually wrong

You fool . . . you fool . . . both of you

